

A Father's Love

A father's love is special
And when his arms open wide
He fills his kids with so much
Love and joy and pride

A father can say so much
With few or even no words
For his actions speak so loudly
They can always be heard

A father figure is so important
And so much can be learned
From all he has to offer
That does not have to be earned

A father happily gives so much
And plays quite easily, too
With children watching closely
Learning from what they do

A father provides the foundation
Of an empowered family
With his love – both gentle and strong
Where all feel safe and free
